SUSAN BUSTER THOMAS DIRECTOR/EDITOR

BIO

The immortal 20th Century artist Pablo Picasso once quipped, “Everything you can imagine is real”. Even though ol’ Pablo was a little out there, and known to lick the backs of frogs for inspiration from time to time, we believe he was onto something.

Director/Editor Susan Buster Thomas is an accomplished artist in taking what is imagined and making it real. She's a natural at eliciting natural performances from real people. From the chaos of family life, to the neuroses of a performance artist exposing her body parts, to the pathos of a homeless man reminiscing about his life, to corporate honchos loosening their ties and everything else in between, nothing is forced. The proof is right up there on the screen for all to see. Susan was an editor before she was a director (so was Scorsese). She knows what works and what doesn't. It's all real.
